

Integrating Climate Projections into Snow-mediated Habitat Selection for Carnivores and Ungulates

Benjamin K. Sullender, Jiangyue Wang, Ross Mower, and Laura Prugh

How will climate change alter snow conditions in Washington?

How will these changing snowpacks affect cougars, wolves, and their prey?

Apex predators will lose about 16 days per winter where they otherwise would have a snow-mediated movement advantage.

Washington
Department of FISH and WILDLIFE

SCHOOL OF ENVIRONMENTAL AND FOREST SCIENCES
UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON
College of the Environment